

Do you need an AT Fairy Godmother?

You don't need to be a rookie to want one.

Even experts need help sometimes

Worried?

Is my report defensible? Have I done enough assessment? Is that request reasonable? I answer these questions all the time. "I get it!" I've lived your challenges, too.

As a national speaker, AT and UDL consultant, and program designer, I am passionate about empowering educators to, in turn empower their students to access the curriculum.

What if you, the AT Specialist, could get the support you need - confidentially? Here's how my magic wand can help.

- Need someone to talk through your challenging cases?
- Would it help to practice difficult questions before a challenging IEP?
- Ever feel like you need someone to, edit or re-write your draft or report for a dicey case?
- Need a peer review, or to discuss requests for a specific tool, or other concerns?

What if your Administrator – or you as Administrator – need AT expertise, a review, or an opinion?

- Have a request for assessment and wonder if it's reasonable?
- Have an IEE and need some taking points for the meeting?
- Want to evaluate the effectiveness of outside service providers?
- Want to discuss options for your district AT services?
- AT Assessor burning out? Let's create a plan to re-energize them.
